(54) Title: UPCONVERSION WITH NOISE CONSTRAINED DIAGONAL ENHANCEMENT

(57) Abstract: A method of interpolating a given output pixel value when upconverting interlaced video to progressive video includes the step of determining averages (28, 30, 26) for vertically adjacent pixels, left diagonally adjacent pixels, and right diagonally adjacent pixels respectively for the given output pixel and the step of determining differences (28, 30, 26) between the vertically adjacent pixels, the left diagonally adjacent pixels, and the right diagonally adjacent pixels respectively. The method further selected (32, 42) as an interpolated value for the given output pixel among the averages based on a minimal difference of an absolute value among the differences respectively and further constrains (32, 44) the interpolated value to the value of the average of the vertically adjacent pixels (y1V) if a value for the given output pixel is not between a range of values defined by adjacent pixels above and below the given output pixel or if the selected minimal difference is not unique.

* Special categories of cited documents:
"A"	document defining the general state of the art which is not considered to be of particular relevance	"T" later document published after the international filing date or priority date and not in conflict with the application but cited to understand the principle or theory underlying the invention
"E"	earlier application or patent published on or after the international filing date	"X" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered novel or cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is taken alone
"L"	document which may throw doubts on priority claim(s) or which is cited to establish the publication date of another citation or other special reason (as specified)	"Y" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is combined with one or more other such documents, such combination being obvious to a person skilled in the art
"O"	document referring to an oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means	"&" document member of the same patent family
"P"	document published prior to the international filing date but later than the priority date claimed
